Presenting AP PhotoExpress.

It makes everything else look like the Pony Express.

If you're still sending photographs to newspapers by courier or modem, you're racing against the clock and running behind the times.

Deliver your color photos to more than 1,000 papers in just 30 seconds.

AP PhotoExpress transmits photos for member newspaper and broadcast groups, syndicates and public relations firms, using PhotoStream, AP's revolutionary digital transmission sytem.

PhotoExpress gets your pictures there with unmatched quality and speed, while actually saving you money.

If you think PhotoExpress sounds too good to be true, remember that the Pony Express took 8 days to get the mail across the country.

And even after the telegraph was introduced, there were still some who refused to give up on the ponies.

However, if you're one who believes in faster and better, call AP PhotoExpress at 212-621-6986.

AP Today's AP. So much more than you bargained for.

is pleased to reprint, with permission, the following note by TIME International:

JULY 18, 1994 TIME VOL. 144 NO. 3

THE WEEKLY NEWSMAGAZINE

TO OUR READERS

THIS WEEK TIME INTERNATIONAL welcomes political cartoonist Ranan Lurie to his own page in our Chronicles section. A graphic journalist with a genuinely global reputation, Lurie is a well-traveled type who delights in the diversity of a world of neighbors, whom he lampoons with wit, acuity and compassion. Though fans enjoy the humor and draftsmanship of his work, Lurie feels those qualities are secondary. "First and foremost I'm a political analyst—who happens to draw," he says. "The most important thing is to help the reader see a new angle to a complicated situation."

Lurie, 62, has been probing the world with his pencil since he was a four-year-old in what is now Israel. What first drew him to drawing? "Girls," he says. "I was amazed to see that my cartoons impressed the kindergarten girls, as well as my teacher—and they have paved my way to glory ever since."

After moving to New York in 1968 to serve as LIFE magazine's resident political cartoonist, Lurie observed that the best practitioners of the art worked for daily city newspapers. Determining that what set them apart was their close reading of local politics, he decided to develop his own zone of specialization: the world. In 1979, with his wife and their four children, he set out on a five-year zigzag across the globe to establish firsthand familiarity with his domain: a year in Honolulu at the Advertiser; a year in Bonn at Die Welt; two years in London at the Times and a year in Tokyo at Asahi Shimbun. Returning to the U.S. in 1984, Lurie went to work for U.S. News & World Report, and two years later founded his own syndicate, Cartoonews International. The business was an immediate success. According to the forthcoming 1995 Guinness Book of Records, his cartoon commentaries on world affairs are syndicated in a record 102 countries in 1,097 publications with a circulation of 102 million copies.

HANK MORGAN FOR TIME

SKETCH-PAD MAESTRO LURIE: His zone of specialization is the world

To keep informed, Lurie consults world leaders he met during his years abroad; colleagues at the Center for Strategic and International Studies, where he is a senior adjunct fellow; and the editors who publish his drawings. Lurie is looking forward to working closely with TIME International's editors as he produces his weekly cartoons for Chronicles. "It's probably the happiest professional moment in my life," he says. "It's like joining the Olympic team of good journalism." From a journalist of Lurie's Olympian stature, that's quite a compliment. We're proud to have him on the team.

Linos Kogevinas

—Executive Vice President

The National Federation of Hispanic Owned Newspapers
Invites cartoonists of Spanish/Portugese publications all over the world to participate in the forthcoming international contest for

THE RANAN R. LURIE POLITICAL CARTOON AWARD FOR 1994

The Spanish and Portuguese language newspapers have a treasure of political cartoon talent flourishing and very positively affecting the social fabric of every Spanish/Portuguese speaking society.
Unlike the U.S. and European cartoonists, who are recognized by numerous awards, the Spanish/Portuguese speaking political cartoonists did not have, until now, their own major political cartoon award.

The NATIONAL FEDERATION OF HISPANIC OWNED NEWSPAPERS, in its desire to promote the highest standards of excellence in political cartooning in all Spanish and Portuguese-speaking publications worldwide, has decided to establish the most prestigious political cartooning award given in this linguistic field, and to name the annual award after the world's leading political cartoonist today, Ranan R. Lurie.

We have decided to name this award after Mr. Lurie, since upon carefully examining the work of the world's leading political cartoonists, we found that his cartoons are the ones which should set the example for any cartoonist to follow. His cartoons are internationally renowned for their brilliant analysis, ultimate art, correct projection, coherence - - all this served on a tray of delightful humor. In brief, his work epitomizes the standard that we at the NATIONAL FEDERATION OF HISPANIC OWNED NEWSPAPERS, would like to see Spanish and Portuguese speaking political cartoonists set for themselves to follow.

This award will be presented for the first time at our annual International Hispanic Media Conference in Miami, Florida on October 7, 1994

Ideas that work.

Dear Editor:

It's an exciting time to be in the newspaper industry, when promising new frontiers are emerging both inside and outside our traditional business. Our goal at TMS is to help your newspaper succeed on these frontiers.

We're as committed as ever to developing new editorial features that help you build reader loyalty. In recent years, we've introduced a string of strong new comic strips, including DAVE, BOUND AND GAGGED and THE BUCKETS The incredibly successful debut of MIXED MEDIA in 1994 shows our ability to bring provocative creative talent to your newspaper pages.

We continue to improve the quality and presentation of television and financial information for newspapers. Our TV LISTINGS division is helping newspapers become more targeted and efficient through zoning and fully-paginated services. TMS STOCKS has established partnerships with several financial industry leaders to bring your business section flexible new services.

Likewise, our relationship with THE WEATHER CHANNEL™ opens up opportunities to improve newspaper weather coverage. KNIGHT-RIDDER/TRIBUNE continues to offer innovative news, photo and graphics services that provide a wealth of resources to your paper. And our US EXPRESS total market coverage (TMC) product lets newspapers attract non-subscribers and advertisers with an outstanding editorial package.

But as you know, the media landscape changes every day—and our industry is changing along with it.

While we work to put our own content online and on-screen, we're also helping newspapers maximize their own new media efforts. Our VOICE NEWS NETWORK audiotex service is the flagship of a new generation of multimedia offerings that apply our editorial strengths to new information technologies. Our new digital production center for columns and comics in Chicago will enable you to access content in electronic formats.

TMS's advertising networks are steady providers of broadcast advertising revenue for newspapers. Now, our TV LOG, PREMIUM GRID and TV WEEK advertising networks are enabling newspapers to reach a new generation of cable programmers.

Whether it's for the printed page or electronic media, you can count on TMS to deliver superior services and innovative ideas to help your newspaper pioneer this industry's new frontiers.

Sincerely,

David D. Williams

All syndicates send bills; we also send checks. Our ad networks bring revenue to papers from other media.

Advertising Networks

More viewers turn to newspapers for television information than any other print source. Our advertising networks ensure that newspapers get the advertising dollars they deserve from their television listings.

Under the umbrella of TMS TV Promotion, our three ad networks allow broadcasters and cable programmers to use newspapers to deliver a promotional message right when viewers are deciding what to watch.

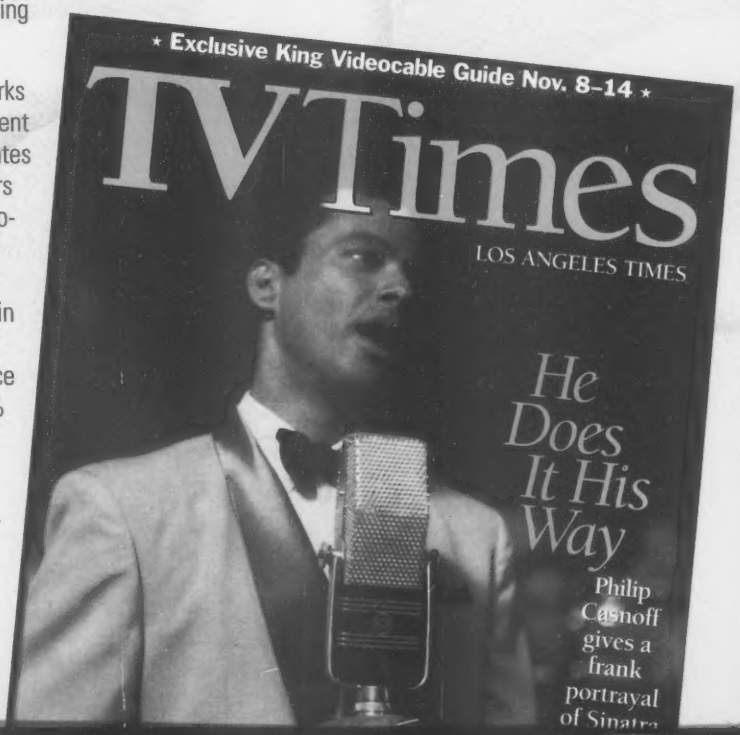
Our three ad networks cover newspapers from coast-to-coast, in packages tailored to programmers' needs. We produce ads that match local channel numbers and times in each market, all through one order and one bill.

What that means to newspapers is advertising revenue from TMS.

We also aggressively support our ad networks with promotion and market research. A recent study conducted by Frank N. Magid Associates demonstrates the importance of newspapers as viewers' primary source for television programming information. The study showed that household penetration for Sunday TV magazines is 91% and that 44% of people in the top 20 ADI markets choose newspaper TV books and listings as their primary source of what's on TV—more than twice the 17% who choose TV Guide.

TMS TV Promotion is a powerful way for TV programmers to generate viewership—and an important revenue stream for newspapers.



New digital technologies help newspapers improve and expand service to readers.

Picture Network International

Imagine a desktop computer system that allows you to archive your own photos and search, view and purchase images from the world's great photo sources with search commands that use everyday language.

That's what's behind a family of new products that enables newspapers and other media to use innovative new digital technology to archive, purchase and sell photographs and other images.

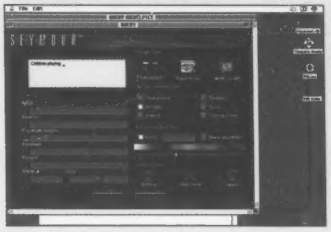


Photo editors will be able to search for images in a digital database using plain English descriptions of subjects and concepts instead of predefined, limited keywords. Users can then retrieve and browse through images before selecting and buying them. Newspapers will also have access to the technology for their own internal use.

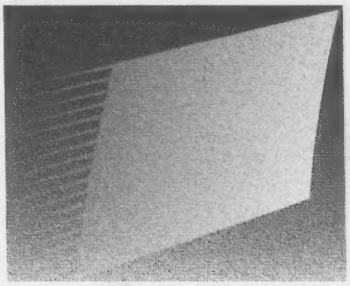
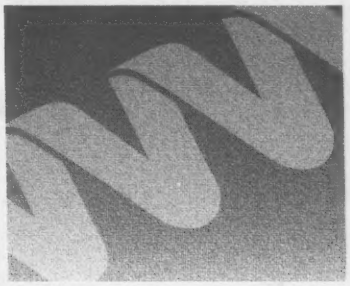
TMS Fax



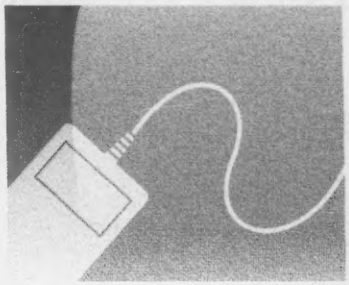
"Fax it to me." That phrase is becoming more and more popular—and smart newspapers have begun to take note of the trend. Newspapers of all sizes are now beginning to experiment with delivering additional information to readers via fax. Although still a small market, fax represents an important technology for the future. TMS is developing a line of products that makes it easier for newspapers to get into the fax business. Our aim is to provide pre-formatted documents, ready for faxing to readers who have special information needs.

Voice News Network



TMS offers audiotex coverage that lets your newsroom get the most out of your paper's audiotex system. Our Voice News Network energizes your news and sports pages with true interactivity, offering round-the-clock updates on key stories. Innovations like VNN's unique link with the Knight-Ridder/Tribune News Service put the power of audiotex in your editor's hands. The Tribune tradition of excellence in news and features assures news quality, credibility and integrity.

Online Services



No syndicate has more experience in creating electronic information services than TMS. We make many of our most popular features available to online services, and our TMS News Desk specializes in customizing news briefs for emerging media. We work with online providers to match our content to their specific needs. Our experience with designing, creating and maintaining information in interactive formats gives TMS the edge in helping newspapers enter the up-and-coming world of online services.

UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE

UNITED MEDIA

WE SYNDICATE THE BEST-LOVED FEATURES IN THE WORLD.

United Media has seen many changes during the past year. We now have a new senior management team in place that reflects the new ways we do business. We're committed to innovation, quality and, most importantly, to our newspaper customers. We have put into place a newly energized organization with a new focus and a new responsiveness and we now have the structure to move quickly in this competitive and fast-changing market.

We're committed to bringing newspapers the highest quality features. In the first half of 1994, we've added Pulitzer Prize-winning editorial cartoonist Steve Benson; award-winning columnist Rheta Grimsley Johnson; Washington's pre-eminent journalistic couple, Steve and Cokie Roberts; and the unique kids' activity page from Rabbit Ears Productions, Hare Brained Hobbies.

We are equally committed to our extraordinary lineup of current talent. Our comics, led by Peanuts, the most widely syndicated feature in newspaper history, as well as Marmaduke, Rose Is Rose, The Born Loser and Frank & Ernest, are among the most popular in the world. Dilbert, the "cartoon hero of the workplace," is boldly going where no comic strip has gone before, experiencing "nerdvana" on the information superhighway. And that's just the beginning.

United Media and its divisions have been a leading provider of newspaper features since 1902 and we expect our past will be but a small part of our future. We look forward with confidence and eagerness to the great opportunities that lie ahead.

Dear Editor:

A recent survey of editors and publishers found that the top threat to newspapers today is not the economy but declining readership — and improving content is the solution. Readers want the best, and Creators Syndicate is committed to representing only the best. Our columnists and cartoonists are the most talented in newspapers today. We place quality first, not only in the talent we represent but in our unwavering commitment to provide excellence in service. It is our business philosophy that the customer is always right and that problems are really disguised opportunities. We thank you for helping to make Creators Syndicate the fastest growing syndicate in the world.

Sincerely,
Richard S. Newcombe

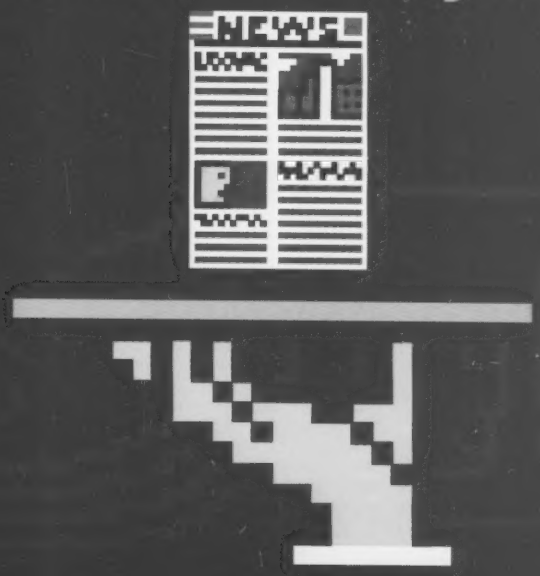
A Network Approach to Newspaper Service from Universal Press Syndicate



Dear Editor:

Wherever you look at Universal Press Syndicate, you'll find a commitment to service. It's the key to nearly a quarter-century of success, and it's the most important aspect of what we do.

Service in the newspaper industry means more than making sure a newspaper receives columns and artwork in time to meet a deadline. It's answering your questions thoroughly, working with your budgetary needs, and enhancing your newspaper's appeal with news and feature articles, columns, and the world's most-loved comic offerings.

Service is also keeping an eye on the road ahead of us — closely watching the future and the opportunities it affords, and developing features, products and programs that continue to help you publish the best possible newspaper.

This year, Universal's service expands to include Garfield, the most widely syndicated comic strip in the world. UPS proudly assumes national and international syndication for this indomitable cat.

Universal also brings your readers Magic Eye, the phenomenally successful three-dimensional newspaper feature that has jumped to national attention through Andrews and McMeel's best-selling Magic Eye books. The popularity of these "hidden images" is a stunning example of how the synergy among our companies benefits all of our clients.

This synergy allows us to offer a wide range of exciting products to your readers through our Revenue Enhancement Program. Many of the books, mugs, T-shirts, and calendars included in this program are based on features that appear in your newspaper. And in 1992, the imaginative weekly feature You Can With Beakman and Jax, by Jok Church, was developed for television by Universal Belo and Columbia Pictures Television. "Beakman's World" is now an Emmy Award-winning Saturday morning program on CBS and The Learning Channel. Beakman also challenges young scientific minds through a number of books published by Andrews and McMeel.

We are also committed to helping newspapers cultivate new sources of revenue through Andrews and McMeel's dynamic newspaper-book program. Working with such newspapers as The Philadelphia Inquirer, The Miami Herald and The Dallas Morning News, Andrews and McMeel has published approximately two dozen titles, including America: What Went Wrong?, Hurricanes: How to Prepare and Recover and The Day JFK Died. By publishing these attention-grabbing stories in book form, we can help heighten a newspaper's regional and national profile and improve its bottom line.

Exciting, challenging days lie ahead for newspapers. We at Universal Press Syndicate are approaching our 25th Anniversary in 1995, and we look forward to serving you as further challenges unfold.

Sincerely,

John P. McMeel
